Planning considerations

Unlike section 73 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990, which only allows a Local Planning Authority (LPA) to vary or remove planning conditions; section 96A allows an LPA to make a change to any planning permission if they are satisfied that the change is not material. The proposed works would be internal and the changes would only relate to the second floor of the dwelling, which would involve bedroom one being retained and the en-suite moved to the front of the property and creating bedrooms four and five to the rear and removing the en-suite from the rear.

Planning assessment

There would be no notable visual change to the external appearance of the proposed dwelling. The proposed changes would not result in a greater level of overlooking and would achieve a good level of amenity, of which rooms could be used for different purposes over the lifetime of the development. The proposed changes would be considered to be non-material and consistent with policies SD1 and BNE1 of the Local Plan.

Recommendation

Approve

None of the other matters raised through the publicity and consultation process amount to material considerations outweighing the assessment of the main issues set out above, noting that conditions or obligations have been attached where meeting the tests for their imposition. Where relevant, regard has been had to the public sector equality duty, as required by section 149 of the Equality Act 2010 and to local finance considerations (as far as it is material), as required by section 70(2) of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended), as well as climate change, human rights and other international legislation.
